

CONFERENCE EUROPE

Friday, October 20
2 p.m.-5:15 p.m.

Saturday, October 21
9 a.m.-4:15 p.m.

A17 Julis Romo Rabinowitz Building

Keynote: Andrew Moravcsik

Princeton University
Friday, October 20, 2 p.m.

Participants:

John Borneman
Princeton University

Lech Garlicki
Former Judge of European Court of Human Rights and Constitutional Court of Poland

François Héran
Institut National D'Études
Démographiques

Harold James
Princeton University

Jakub Janda
Evropské Hodnoty Chránil
Svobodu

R. Daniel Kelemen
Rutgers University

Tomasz Koncewicz
Princeton University

Sophie Meunier
Princeton University

Michael Minkenberg
Europa-Universität Viadrina
Frankfurt

Andrew Moravcsik
Princeton University

Gustav Peebles
The New School

Vlad Perju
Boston College

Kim Lane Scheppele
Princeton University

Rui Tavares
Former Member of the European Parliament

Nadia Urbinati
Columbia University

Antoine Vauchez
Université Paris 1 Panthéon
Sorbonne

Patrick Weil
Yale University

Europe has always represented itself as composed of diverse people and cultures, but today this diversity is seen more as a problem than a positive attribute. Confronted with a series of interlocking economic, cultural, political, and legal crises, the strain on European solidarities threatens to weaken postwar institutions. What do these crises reveal about the imagination of Europe, the European Union and European institutions?

Organized by the Program in Contemporary European Politics and Society and the European Crises PIIRS
Research Initiative

Co-sponsored with the European Union Program and the Department of Anthropology

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

PIIRS
Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies