

Szkola Prawa Hiszpańskiego
i Latinoamerykańskiego

The School of Spanish and Latin American Law was established at the Faculty of Law and Administration at the University of Gdansk in cooperation with the University of Alicante and other universities in Spain and Latin America. The School has the patronage of the International Chamber of Commerce in Barcelona, The Gdansk Bar Association of attorneys at law and the Colegio Provincial del Abogacía in Alicante.

The studies at the School are dedicated for students and university graduates, PhD candidates, legal trainees, entrepreneurs, practitioners (e.g. attorneys, legal advisors, translators) interested in issues related to law, business and economics in Spain and Latin American countries.

The classes at the School of Spanish and Latin American Law last one semester, and within the academic year we organize thematic seminars and a SUMMER SCHOOL.

The students receive a Certificate - university diploma of the completion of the course.

The classes at the School are conducted in Spanish by university lecturers and practitioners in the area of law and business.

Examples of thematic blocks:

- Intellectual property law and new technologies
- Criminal law
- Constitutional law
- Civil law
- Commercial law
- Private international law
